

Access Management is essential for cloud transformation

2020 Thales Access Management Index Asia Pacific Edition

Results from the 2020 Thales Access Management Index, a survey of 500 executives in Australia, Hong Kong, India, Japan and Singapore with responsibility for, or influence over, IT and data security. Survey, reporting and analysis conducted by Vanson Bourne, commissioned by Thales.

Asia Pacific organisations take action to protect themselves from cloud threats in remote working era

Password vulnerability

81% of respondents have security concerns around password vulnerability

Cloud adoption challenge

58% are concerned that increasing use of cloud apps make them a target for cyber attacks

Access Management = compliance

99% state that controlling who has access to specific types of data can contribute towards compliance

Cyber breaches driving change in security investments

55%

of IT leaders surveyed are finding it easier to secure buy-in from boards on security, up from 34%

78%

are influenced by the threat of large-scale breaches to implement access management solutions up from 74%

Access Management is essential for cloud transformation

89%

plan to expand their use of smart Single Sign-On to protect sensitive data (57%) and applications (45%).

50%

believe that ineffective cloud access management can lead to cloud apps becoming a security issue

Building a future we can all trust

Contact us

For all office locations and contact information, please visit cpl.thalesgroup.com/contact-us

cpl.thalesgroup.com/apac-access-management-index

#AMI2020

Thanks to our sponsors

Learn more and download the report at
cpl.thalesgroup.com/apac-access-management-index

THALES